About the Seminar:

The phenomenon of globalization is a distinctive an important development in the contemporary world history. It represents a tendency towards greater integration of the world-economically, technologically as well as culturally. The process involves the removal of most state imposed restrictions on movements between countries of money, goods, services and capital and is based on the presumption that it would benefit entire mankind. However, the functioning of the process so far suggests different consequences for different countries, regions and different sections of people.

India entered into the process in 1991 when the country was in the grip of severe financial crises. Now, two decades after the initiation of the process it is worthwhile to examine its various implications for the economy, society, polity, environment and Science & Technology in the country.

Within the broad theme the focus of this seminar will be on the following sub-themes:-

- Globalization: Challenges and Opportunities.
- Impact of Globalization on Indian Economy.
- Impact on Indian Society and Culture.
- Impact on Polity with special reference to Governance and Policy Making.
- Impact on Science, Technology and Environment.
- Impact on Higher Education in India.

The above sub-themes are suggestive. The participants may also deliberate over some other related aspects within the purview of the proposed theme.
